

I'm a UX Strategist and Product Owner with a consulting background, shaping digital products and services for complex, fast-evolving industries, including B2B and Software as a service projects.

Working across startups, corporates, and growing businesses has taught me to connect user needs, business vision, and technical complexity, turning strategic challenges into intuitive, high-impact experiences.